IGUAPE MESSENGER BAG
"PASSPORT," APRIL 2009 --

BRAZILIAN TARP BAG

You can save yourself all the agita of getting angry at the airlines for roughing up your luggage if you start out already roughed up. The Iguape Messenger Bag from The Real Deal Brazil is made from recycled canvas tarpaulins from cargo trucks, and has already been to hell and back (or at least to the Amazon from São Paulo and back). The edgy, frayed look is unique, and every bag is different. This green carryall is travel durable and an asymmetric flap gives access to several pockets and design-forward vertical zippers. There are nooks and crannies to stash pens and phones, or any old thing you collect on the road. $69.99. www.realdealbrazil.com

EXTREME FRESHNESS

In an effort to translate to a fragrance the sense of a sports car racing by at lightning speed, and your head whapping around with a surprised "What was that?" Porsche Design has infused their best men's scents, The Essence, with some elusive scents, intending to convey extreme freshness without the expected soap or marine overtones, they start with a single molecule known as "Artical," meant to invoke the North Pole. Layered with the bracing top note are other "urban and cultured" elements such as juniper, blueberry, colander, black pepper, pine, and balsam. 1.7 oz. $54, 2.7 oz. $70. ### MULTI-USE CHARGER

An indispensable product that does double duty is a real gift to space saving travelers. The revelITE from Scosche is a necessary accessory; it charges all your products (music player, phone, etc) without the tangle of cords, and it keeps charging devices off the floor or desk in a hotel room. It also provides an LED nightlight that automatically illuminates in low light so you can navigate in lamplight environs—and it meets Energy Star performance standards. White or black. $39.99.
